CLARK'S FATE IN THE HANDS OF SENATE.

The Committee's Report Scores the Grossly Corrupt Methods of the Montana Senator.

WASHINGTON. April 22.—Senator Chandler, from the Committee on Privileges and Elections, today submitted to the Senate the report of that committee in the case of Senator Clark of Montana. The report is comparatively brief, containing only about 100 pages of printed matter. It does not rehearse the testimony, but simply presents the finding of the committee and its reasons for the same. The finding of the committee is stated as follows:

"The finding of the committee is that the Senator of the Senate of William A. Clark of Montana is guilty and void, on account of bribery, attempted bribery and corrupt practices by his agents, and of violation of the laws of Montana defining and punishing crimes against the elective franchise."

On the basis of this finding the committee reports and unanimously recommends the adoption by the Senate of the following resolution:

"Resolved, That William A. Clark was not duly and lawfully elected to a seat in the Senate of the United States by the Legislature of the State of Montana."

The report concludes with a strong recommendation for early consideration of the case, as follows:

THE SENATE'S DUTY.

"The Senate should, as a duty to itself and to the country, demonstrate by an act that the election of Senator Clark of the United States Senate procured as Senator Clark's has been procured cannot be retained by the deliberate judgment of the Senate."

The Senate also owes a duty to the people of Montana, who, conscious of the bad record he has with the people, and the reason of vast expenditures of money in connection with his elections, manifested such a public sentiment that the Legislature of 1895 passed a statute which, if obeyed would have redeemed the State from its ignominy. To the State and gross violations of the statute and its consequent disrepute which continues to rest upon the State, Montana has a right to expect a prompt and decisive remedy from the action of the Senate upon the report of the Committee."

The committee stated that its finding is made in view of certain admitted or undisputed facts, with their attendant circumstances, appearing in the testimony taken by the committee, and these are summarized under fifteen headings, as follows:

1. The expenditures in the contest of 1896 as testified to by Senator Clark and Governor Hauser.

2. Quoted the law of 1895 relative to campaign expenses, which was, in the opinion of the committee, and amount of political expenditures which could be made in any election, either by political committee or a candidate, especially naming a candidate for United States Senator, who could not give more than $1,000 to any one committee in a county and could not pay more than $1,000 for his personal expenses in lawful ways specified.

3. Assents that Senator Clark has been consistently a candidate for office, and that he has been a candidate, and notes the organization of a committee, this in connection with his friends in Butte.

"To this committee," the report says, "he gave unlimited authority to spend money, which he agreed to furnish an estimate of which he was never, however, made to know that at least $50,000 would be necessary to secure the State convention and that $5,000 might be needed to secure the State Legislature."

WHAT CLARK SPENT.

In the canvass which ensued the approximate expenditures admitted by Senator Clark and his committee and their assistants were as follows:

Charles W. Clark, $25,000; by McDermott, $2,000; by Corbin, $500; by Whitmore, $400; by Cooper, $500; mainly $1,000; Charles W. Clark; and the amount of those expenditures Senator Clark himself paid to his agents. The advances and payments made by Senator Clark to his committee and agents, admitted by him, amounted to $100,000 received on August 12, 1898, $35,000; October 17, $20,000; October 23, $40,000; and February 23, 1900, $20,500; and in addition to this $100,000, Senator Clark paid to Mr. Dermott, one of his agents, $500 to Welcome, attorney, and $500 to E. C. Day, a member of the Legislature.

5. None of the members of the committee or their assistants made the sum returned to Senator Clark, and Senator Clark himself make any return.

Sections 6 to 15, with the business transactions of Mr. Clark and his representatives with members of the Legislature, the purchase of Representative McLaughlin's property, the transfer of $900 to Representative Wood to raise the mortgage on his ranch and the subsequent sale of the ranch; the establishment of a bank after the adjournment of the Legislature largely through the efforts of Senator Clark, and the representatives Eversole and Shovlin of Broadway county, the sale of lots and other property in Jefferson county to a representative of Mr. Clark, by Senator Wood, the transfer of $2,000 to Mr. Giger, Fine, Beasley, and Water, and the present of $500 to Representative Day after the adjournment of the Legislature.

THE SENATOR'S METHODS.

Speaking of the transaction with Woods, the committee says:

"Senator Clark knew of Mr. Bickford's attempts to purchase the indebtedness which Woods owed, and the correspondence shows that the object was to secure Mr. Bickford's election. Mr. Bickford agreed: 'In pursuance of that letter (the letter of November 21st, from one Ector) and of the invitation which I at the time received, I made arrangements to obtain, for the purpose of securing it, to prevent the indebtedness of Woods going into the hands of Mr. Day's friends, the sum of $100,000 with which to take up the indebtedness.'

"On November 12, 1898, Mr. Woods mortgaged his sheep and cattle for $100,000, payable in one year, on April 1, 1899, paid the mortgage debt. Mr. Woods left Montana and gone to New Mexico."

Referring to Mr. Tierney's connection with the bank at Townsend, the report says:

"On June 1, Mr. Tierney organized the State Bank of Townsend on a capital of $25,000, of which his took $5,000. Mr. Shovlin took $1,000, and Mr. Eversole, $1,000, nearly all the $25,000 passing through Mr. Tierney's hands in the city. His $5,000, he says he took from the money drawn from the safe in the office of Mr. Clark's company. Company, but when this $5,000 came he did not show by any writing whatever."

Referring to Garr's story about securing money from his aunt with which to purchase a ranch, the committee remarks:

"There was no previous knowledge of how she had accumulated this money."

The reference to Mr. Day's connection with Mr. Clark is as follows:

"C. Day was Senator Clark's candidate for speaker and was defeated in the Democratic caucus, receiving 25 votes to 30 votes for Mr. Stitt. Mr. Day was the leader of Mr. Clark's forces in the Legislature during all the balloting after the second. On February 18th, Senator Clark personally wrote a letter to Mr. Day for his services in the Legislature and a retainer as counsel in the future. This amount was received by Mr. Day through Mr. Welcome and Mr. Daivison on the 23rd day of March, the day after the Legislature adjourned."

OTHER OFFENSES.

Referring to Mr. Tierney's connection with the bank at Townsend, after detail with the committee, the report says:

"While the findings of the committee are justified by the foregoing admitted and undisputed facts, with their attendant circumstances, statements of facts made by the committee, by additional facts relating to the testimony of the agents, and various unsuccessful attempts to secure votes of offers of money which, although denied, are found by the majority of the committee to be substantiated by the previous statement of testimony."

The committee adds that it would unnecessarily encumber and extend this report to give these additional facts in detail, but "in addition to these additional facts, the committee can say that other draftees are narrated, because there is a difference of opinion in the committee concerning them."

The latter attempts relate especially to Senator Clark's connection with Senator Whiteside's connection with the candidacy of Senator Clark and his efforts to expose the Senator's methods. The testimony relating to Whiteside, State Senator Clark, Senator Myers and Representative Garrison is that the committee did not consider it necessary to narrate the testimony of the three accusers (Whiteside, Myers, and State Senator Clark) undoubtably occupied the position of detectives, who willfully deceived and lied, whom they made charges on. On the other hand, the parties against whom they testified and who make the denials are charged with crimes, to which if guilty, they would be quite certain to add to the offense of falsehood.

The majority of the committee, under all circumstances appearing, are not willing to consider the situation as one of equilibrium between the detectives on the one hand and the alleged lawbreakers on the other.

CLARK'S ENEMIES SCORED.

While Mr. Clark of Madison, Myers and Whitefield testified they must have contemplated in the beginning a conspiracy of the basest character, to be followed up by perjury of the worst sort, and they must have intended to pass through details in the course of the investigation, they did not do so, which is to be inferred that they were willing to subject themselves merely to prevent Senator Clark from becoming a United States Senator."

The majority of the committee, under all circumstances appearing, are not willing to consider the situation as one of equilibrium between the detectives on the one hand and the alleged lawbreakers on the other.

THE EXECUTION.

Aguirre led the way to the scaffold which was in the adjoining room. Following him came Fathers Sullivan and Valentine. Then came Eslabe and behind him walked Hangman Abrogast and an attendant.

The warden stepped to the right and Eslabe took up a place upon the trap, the execrarians standing on the left reciting the litany of the saints.

Eslabe had hardly taken up his position when one of the attendants bound his legs with a strap, and the black cap was put on.

Hangman Abrogast then fixed the deadly noose around the murderer's neck, the big knot being securely placed beneath the left ear. The signal was then given. There was a breaking of bolts and Eslabe shot through the staging and fell about five feet. The head dropped over on the right shoulder, the neck having snapped like a pipe-stem.

While the body was falling down, Eslabe closed his fist and those members retained that gulp until it was loosened at the neck. There was not a movement of any other member of the body. The execution was one of the most successful ever held in the penitentiary.

The pulsato not the victim was taken by Dr. Casey, the prison surgeon, and Mrs. Wickman and Jones of San Rafael.

In 34 minutes the pulse ceased to beat and all was over.

The execution was witnessed by about fifty people, among whom were Chief Hodgin, Captain Peterson, Sergeant McKinley and Detective Kyte of this city, all of whom had something to do with the arrest of Eslabe; Deputy Sheriff George Taylor, Drs. W. S. Porter and J. T. Kitchens.

Speaking on the subject of his crime last night, Eslabe said:

"Yes, I killed Gates. I was drunk when I did it. I have never denied it."

THIS VERSION OF THE MURDER.

"I may be a murderer, but I always tell the truth. I am not telling a lie now. I was not alone in this crime. There were two others with me. One was that woman Grace Galindo, and the other was the cook, Metz. They were with me at the time and they knew what I did. They did not like Gates. He was too smart. He always wanted to be funny and used to make jokes about Grace. He wanted to be a lover of hers, and that made Metz mad. He made Metz and me mad that night and we made a bad proposal to the woman, which caused a fight. I separated them, and we made friends. Metz and I went out and got some liquor and went back. Metz and I drank some while we were out and he said he would kill Gates if she spoke to Miss Galindo again. I said that I would kill him if he spoke about my wife again. When we went back there Gates was talking to Miss Galindo.

Metz and he fought and I separated them. Gates then went into the kitchen and Metz and Grace and I talked together and we decided we would kill Gates.

It was agreed that we would then rob the till of the place and distribute the money amongst ourselves. Grace Galindo was drunk about this time and I told Metz to take her away and come back.

and they immediately began to look for Eslabe. The search continued during the night and finally was rewarded by the capture of Eslabe by Detective Holland, just as he was about to take the first train on the morning of the 28th for San Francisco.

Eslabe was discharged from custody.

Eslabe made no attempt to conceal his guilt. When he was placed under arrest there were splashes of blood upon his clothes and his shirt also bore sanguinary stains. There was also visible attempt to remove the stains, which had not been successful.

At the time of his arrest Eslabe was serving a sentence which belonged to Gates, in a cell which was packed to the gunwales with the condemned man and in a pocket of his trousers was found seven dollars which he admitted he had taken out of the U.S. G. factory.

Eslabe made no further confessions of his crime to the police, but he admitted his guilt to his wife, who was a maid.

Eslabe was then taken to the prison hospital, where he was given a meal and a glass of beer.

The profits at the Monte Carlo Casino are dropping off fast. This must not be interpreted as an evidence of increased liberality on the part of the management but rather that suckers are becoming scarce.

OUR MINERAL SHOWING.

The report just prepared by the Superintendent of the Mint showing the gold and silver output of California during 1899 to be $15,800,000 is gratifying in the extreme. It is true that these figures are $40,000 lower than those of 1888, but when the drought that prevailed throughout the summer months is taken into consideration, it is apparent that the showing is even more creditable, for the losses sustained by inability to reach water for working purposes certainly reached into the millions.

A State that can pour fifteen or sixteen million dollars a year into the lap of the nation, as California has been doing of late, could from that one standpoint alone be considered a treasure-land, and when it is remembered that the mining industry is only one of our many resources it can be seen what a premier position we occupy as a wealth-producing commonwealth. There is every reason to believe, too, that the present output will be permanent and even increased for an indefinite period to come, for the placer mining has, in a measure, passed away and our riches are now being wrested from the great gold-bearing ledges that traverse the State. The best way to illustrate this is to quote from the Mint report itself, for it shows that the last year's clean-up consisted of $12,290,138 from quartz mines, $1,125,500 from hydraulic, $1,019,955 from drift and $1,401,386 from placer. It is also encouraging to know that the past year has witnessed the investment of hundreds of thousands of dollars in additional mining machinery, for it shows that the mine-owners are satisfied that there are yet bountiful opportunities to add to their income.

WHAT THE OTHER MAN DID.
He stood beside the tomb of one whose duty had been nobility. Whom men had named as great and grand.

And, sighing, said: "We tasted fame! And died behind a deathless name! God be with us all in our birth while I was born to live unknown to die And leave behind no trace to show That I had been here below!"

But was it so?

"God gave them talents to display And led him into fortune's way; The opportunities he sought Were always there—ah, bless his lot! Why could not God have fashioned me As great, as wonderful as he? And when I was born, I'd gain The world's applause, while I remain To play—why have I been denied The bliss of gaining heights?" he sighed.

He never tried.

"Yes, sir," the man interrupted the caller. "It's all right until I've put the baby to sleep. I'll come down and talk to you."

"Heavens! how did you guess it?"

"Very simple. If it were you, first you'd wake up to show it to me. If you had more than two, it'd be at your club about this time."—Philadelphia Press.

State that can pour fifteen or sixteen million dollars a year into the lap of the nation, as California has been doing of late, could from that one standpoint alone be considered a treasure-land, and when it is remembered that the mining industry is only one of our many resources it can be seen what a premier position we occupy as a wealth-producing commonwealth. There is every reason to believe, too, that the present output will be permanent and even increased for an indefinite period to come, for the placer mining has, in a measure, passed away and our riches are now being wrested from the great gold-bearing ledges that traverse the State. That the year 1900 will result in an even better outcome for our mining interests is reasonably certain, for the increased development and working possibilities will be aided by a plenty of water. The news that the mountains are covered with snow conveys assurance in this regard, for its gradual melting will make the supply continuous and thus provide one of the most necessary elements in mining operations. The whole Pacific Coast cannot but reap exceeding benefits from the vast mining movement that is in progress, for in addition to our local production, much of the wealth that is being contributed to the shores of the world by Alaska is finding its way into our circulating channels. In this connection it will surprise some people to hear that the Klondike mines last year produced $16,254,107 in gold and silver and that the actual receipts from Cape Nome for its first season were $2,400,000. Not only is the West fair to look upon but its beauty is more than skin deep, for no part of the world is more prolific in the variety and richness of its subterranean resources than is this, as is best proved by these records of our contributions to civilization.

R. B. PAGE ON TRIAL.

R. B. Page, who was arrested shortly before the last election on a charge of disturbing the peace, had his trial set for today. He was found to be a blithe spirit of Marshal Gleisner, who was using very abusive language against him in the street. Gleisner happened along and finally resulted in Gleisner arresting Page, whom he locked up in the jail. Page demanded a jury trial.

OUTING AT CAMP TAYLOR.

Tribune Employees Enjoy a Day in the Country.

The employees of THE TRIBUNE and their friends were the guests of the paper at a delightful picnic at Camp Taylor on Monday. The day was a perfect one and all enjoyed the scenery, as beautiful as could be found in all scenic California.

The party left Oakland at 7 o'clock in the morning, arriving at Camp Taylor at 10 o'clock. The picnic began at 12:45 o'clock.

The party was entertained with dancing and games and an excellent musical program. A tug-of-war between men and single men, resulted in a victory for the latter. Jim Wilson, captain of the single men and A. Spencer acted in that capacity for the married men. Before leaving camp Taylor, the entire party was photographed.
